"Visiting the shelter in person was a deeply humbling experience. I had seen the updates and stories online, but nothing compares to standing amidst the rescued animals, feeling their trust and warmth. The team here is doing more than just treating wounds – they're restoring dignity to lives that were forgotten.

I remember meeting a dog who had survived a terrible accident but still wagged his tail at every visitor. That moment changed something in me.

Supporting this shelter isn't charity – it's a commitment to a kinder world. I've returned a second time because I believe in what they're building here – a sanctuary not just for animals, but for compassion itself."

A True Force of Compassion at Animal Care

Some people don't just support a cause –they live it. Poornima, a dedicated team member at Animal Care, is one such person whose compassion, commitment, and tireless efforts have changed the lives of countless animals in need.

Poornima's love for animals isn't something she switches on at work—it's a part of who she is. As a pet parent herself, she brings genuine empathy and understanding to everything she does, making her an invaluable part of the Animal Care family.

Her role spans far beyond the everyday. Poornima is a driving force behind awareness campaigns, fundraising efforts, and in-kind donation drives that keep our shelter running and our animals thriving. She works diligently to spread our message, mobilize support, and connect with kind-hearted individuals who want to help but don't always know how. Through her efforts, we've received not just funds but critical supplies—medicines, food, bedding, and more—that go directly toward the care of our furry residents.

Thanks to her outreach, many previously voiceless animals now have access to treatment, shelter, and even a chance at adoption. Her work ensures that every plea is heard, every need is met, and every story is told with dignity and heart.

Poornima doesn't seek the spotlight, but her impact shines through in every happy tail wag, every healed wound, and every saved life. At Animal Care, she is more than a team member—she is family, both to us and to the animals who depend on her.

Thank you, Poornima, for standing by the voiceless and being a constant source of hope and healing. Your dedication inspires us all.

"My visits to the shelter were nothing short of life-changing. The first time, I was overwhelmed by the scale of suffering the team was addressing every day – but also by the love and resilience in the eyes of the animals. The second time, I saw the same animals healed, playing, and trusting again. That transformation was powerful. This shelter doesn't just rescue – it rebuilds lives. As a donor, witnessing the impact of even a single contribution was incredibly moving. It reaffirmed why I choose to support them. This place is a beacon of hope, and I'm honored to be a part of their journey."

A Heartwarming Visit from Mrs. Kirat and Her Daughter Veera – Inspiring the Next Generation of Animal Lovers

This month, we had the pleasure of hosting Mrs. Kirat and her young daughter Veera at our Animal Care shelter—a visit that brought smiles, inspiration, and a renewed sense of hope for the future.

As Mrs. Kirat walked through the shelter, she showed immense compassion for the animals in our care, many of whom have been rescued from neglect, accidents, or abandonment. Her thoughtful questions and encouraging words reminded our team that the work we do is truly valued and supported by kind-hearted individuals.

What made the visit even more special was the presence of little Veera. Despite her young age, Veera displayed an extraordinary level of empathy and curiosity. She spent time with our dogs and cats, listened attentively to their stories, and eagerly interacted with our team. Veera shared that she wants to become a volunteer and help care for the animals—her words filled us with joy and pride. It's not every day that we see such genuine compassion in someone so young.

Visits like these not only uplift our team but also ignite a powerful ripple effect of awareness and kindness. The support of families like the Kirats reaffirms our belief that change starts with empathy, and it often begins at home.

We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Kirat and Veera for their time, warmth, and desire to contribute to our mission. Veera's interest in volunteering is a beautiful reminder that the future of animal welfare is in compassionate hands.

We look forward to having Veera and her family back at the shelter—and to watching her grow into a true champion for the voiceless.

Hope on the Streets: Stories of Survival from the Frontlines of Rescue

What made the visit even more special was the presence of little Veera. Despite her young age, Veera displayed an extraordinary level of empathy and curiosity. She spent time with our dogs and cats, listened attentively to their stories, and eagerly interacted with our team. Veera shared that she wants to become a volunteer and help care for the animals—her words filled us with joy and pride. It's not every day that we see such genuine compassion in someone so young.

We've seen the aftermath of brutal road accidents—dogs left lying in agony on highways and busy intersections, some with broken bones, crushed limbs, and severe internal injuries. Many were unconscious, bleeding, and barely clinging to life when our team reached them. In several cases, life-saving surgeries were carried out within hours of rescue—amputations, bone plating, and emergency treatments that gave them a second chance.

Alongside these accidents, we've also responded to distressing cruelty cases. Beaten, burned, or deliberately injured, these animals were found with deep wounds, swollen faces, and signs of prolonged abuse. Some were abandoned after falling ill, left without food or shelter, struggling to survive in harsh conditions. The visible wounds tell only part of their story—the invisible trauma often takes far longer to heal.

Each of the dogs you see in these photos has fought a battle. They've endured physical pain, emotional trauma, and in many cases, complete abandonment. But thanks to quick action, compassionate care, and support from people like you, they now have a safe space to recover—free from fear, hunger, and harm.

Our shelter is now home to over 80 such animals, each requiring daily treatment, nutritious food, and emotional rehabilitation. These rescues remind us of the urgent need for compassion—not just in moments of crisis, but in everyday life. They show us that while cruelty still exists, so does kindness.

But we cannot do this alone.

Every treatment, every surgery, every meal is possible only because of your support. With rising medical and operational costs, we are depending more than ever on your generosity to continue this life-saving work.

As you turn these pages, let these faces remind you: your help heals. Your support saves. Your kindness gives them a second chance.

Join us in creating a world where every animal is seen, saved, and loved.

A Voice for the Voiceless: Animal Care Team Joins Protest at Jantar Mantar

On April 20th, at 12 PM, the Animal Care Team joined a powerful gathering of animal lovers, volunteers, and welfare organizations at Jantar Mantar, New Delhi, to raise our collective voice against the unlawful relocation of community dogs.

This was not just a demonstration—it was a heartfelt appeal to protect the most vulnerable beings in our urban landscape. Over the past few weeks, there has been a troubling surge in the forceful removal of street dogs from their home territories across Delhi. These dogs, many of whom are sterilized, vaccinated, and lovingly cared for by feeders, have been taken away without warning or accountability. Some have vanished entirely.

The Animal Birth Control (ABC) Rules 2023, laid down by the Animal Welfare Board of India, clearly state that sterilized and vaccinated dogs must be returned to the same area they were picked up from. These rules are in place not only to protect the dogs but also to ensure public health through proper management of the street dog population. Sadly, these laws are being overlooked, and our community dogs are paying the price.

At the protest, our team stood in solidarity with hundreds of concerned citizens to demand an immediate halt to these illegal actions. We held placards, shared stories, and reminded everyone that these dogs are not just “strays”—they are part of our neighborhoods, our ecosystem, and our hearts.

Every day, we care for dogs who rely on specific territories for their survival. When they are removed, they lose their shelter, their feeding points, their sense of safety. Many do not survive the ordeal. The pain and disorientation they suffer is immense, and entirely preventable.

We believe that humane, lawful solutions must be implemented with compassion and cooperation—not cruelty and secrecy. Enforcement of ABC protocols, support for local feeders, and community awareness are the real answers—not relocation.

Our presence at Jantar Mantar on April 20th was a reflection of our mission—to be the voice for the voiceless. We thank every individual who joined us, in person or in spirit, for making this stand matter. It is only through unity and persistence that real change becomes possible.

This protest was a beginning. And we are far from finished.
